It is disappointing to observe those who received powerful ministry from the Lord, but are sucked back into old patterns of behavior as their minds return to captivity. An old proverb says: “a pig will return to its wallow” (2 Peter 2:22), but people aren’t pigs! Still, demons are like pigs that seek rest in whatever yucky stuff people hang onto. Some people fall back into damaging behaviors. Demons, seeing that the house is swept clean, come back and bring others with them. I understand why some pastors have given up on deliverance ministry because of what happens to those who don’t continue the fight once they receive deliverance ministry. As I will explain within the pages of this book; deep healing and deliverance may take us to the core of our demonization and pain. But once we get to the inner core, we need to deal with iniquities and faults that reside there the way the Bible tells us to. We can minister healing to inner wounds and cast out demons, but the Bible way of dealing with iniquities and faults is true confession and the corresponding prayers of the righteous for healing. This book is the product of my own personal study of how we can deal with specific “rotten inner cores” through confession and prayer and actually be healed of root problems deep within.
