Feminine Faith (The Chasidic Heritage Series) Shmuel Schneersohn

Feminine Faith traces the roots of the feminine within the supernal realms, and explores its relationship to women and how it translates into their aversion for unholy and ungodly worship. When the Jews served the golden calf during their sojourn in the wilderness, says the Midrash, the women refused to join them. Why are women more sensitive than men to G-ds role in earthly events and His mastery over creation? In this discourse, Rabbi Shmuel Schneersohn, fourth leader of Chabad Lubavitch (1834-1882), explores G-ds unity and immanence in the world, and the innate sensitivity that woman posses to spirituality.
