This is an updated edition of the best selling title. This is a collection of over 100 images of Manchester, Salford and other key locations. First published in 2007, "Manchester From the Air" became an instant hit and soon sold out. Back due to popular demand, it now includes a selection of new photographs showing the cities further development in the last 24 months. Manchester is the world's first industrialized city and, today, the regional center for commerce, sport and the arts and this book of aerial photography offers a unique insight into the city, capturing both historical development and the architectural environment from a unique perspective. Jonathan Webb of Webb Aviation Aerial Photography has spent four years assembling a large collection of hundreds of aerial photographs of Manchester and Salford. From this collection, over 100 images have been chosen for the book to show some of the most interesting views of the city and its buildings. Having been born and lived in Greater Manchester all his life, Jonathan has been able to draw on his local knowledge to provide sometimes surprising information in the accompanying text.
